

Snap the moment

What do you need for this game?

Digital camera or Polaroid, a story.

Participants: the whole group

Language aims

Develop listening skills and working in team.

Using their body to express the feelings of the characters.

First, the teacher selects a text, usually a short story, according to the group level.

Read and check understanding with students.

Then, the teacher decides who is the narrator, and the student in charge of taking pictures. The adult shares the role plays of the characters in the story to the students.

After that, the actors have a '10 period to rehearse their acting and the narrator the reading.

Once the time finished the activity starts.

- Narrator reads the story
- Students act it out
- Photographer takes pictures of different moments during the acting.

When the play is finished the actors have to put the pictures in the correct order.
